

I urge you to retain the regulations preventing one company from owning several broadcast outlets. We need as much diversity as possible in the media. When corporate conglomerates control the media, there is a reduction in the diversity of voices and issues that can be heard. The lack of media coverage of this particular issue itself illustrates the dangers of having corporate interests in control of the media.